Mission and Mandate

The Canada-India Business Council (C-IBC) is Canada's only private sector, member driven, not-for-profit national business association dedicated to the sustained growth of trade, investment and services between corporate Canada and corporate India.

We are India's business link to Canada.

Our mission is to assist and guide Indian corporations by offering knowledge and experience, business and organizational linkages and research services.

Organization

The Canada-India Business Council is a long-standing supporter of bilateral trade and investment growth between Canada and India.

Founded in 1982 by the Bank of Nova Scotia, Bombardier and the late Thomas Bata, the C-IBC seeks to deepen the relationship between corporate and institutional Canada and India.

C-IBC is governed internationally by a Board of Directors, comprised of senior executives from leading organizations in India and Canada as well as small and medium-sized enterprises.

C-IBC has a professional team headquartered in Toronto with operations in British Columbia, Quebec, New Delhi and Mumbai.

Activities and Initiatives

Canada's prudent fiscal policy, low inflation, and corporate tax framework are among the best in the world. Canada has also enjoys an AAA International Credit Rating (the highest rating) since 2002, and the World Economic Forum's Global Competitiveness Report ranks Canada's banking system as the soundest in the world.

The C-IBC provides advisory services comprising of business intelligence and operational support to enter the North American market place.

The C-IBC also offers opportunities to network and meet top senior Canadian leaders, attend trade delegations, advocate on behalf of your interests, enable access to key decision makers and provide advanced notice and preferred status at all C-IBC events. These events include CEO forums, sector specific private sessions with senior Canadian leaders and investors; whatever the goals and objectives of your business the C-IBC offers a membership option that delivers.
